Wine making process

After a short maceration period of one week, the wine then received a proper fermentation in stainless still tanks under controlled temperatures. It was subsequently subject to the malolactic fermentation process, after which it was bottled.

Tasting notes

Colour

Intense cherry red with purple strains at its edge. Reflecting its youth. Fine, clear robe.

Nose

Expressing nose with red berry and forest fruit aromas.

Palate

Fruity and sweet. Balanced and light with ripe tannins.
